WRITTEN BY: NADINE BLANCO

Just a stone's throw away from Downtown San Diego in south central is Barrio Logan. Radiating with artistic Latinx culture that has long been established in the area for several generations, the history and culture remain a strong presence despite new developments. With new independent shops, restaurants and bars, Barrio Logan has become one of San Diego's best-kept secrets. You won't want to miss out on the amazing art and delicious eats here but don't worry—we have your day all planned out!

SIMÓN LIMÓN

9:30 a.m.

Shop for Art
→ Simón Limón is a creative space that supports contemporary artists from both sides of the border. These "artpreneurs" not only showcase and sell their work here, but they also offer workshops.
SIMÓN LIMÓN

11 a.m.

Fuel Up at Lunch
→ Las Cuatro Milpas has been a Barrio Logan mainstay since 1933. It may seem like any old-school Mexican joint, but once you get a taste of their homemade tortillas, it's no wonder why there's usually a line out the door.
LAS CUATRO MILPAS

1 p.m.

Art Crawl
→ Check out the talented artists showcased at La Bodega Gallery. Since 2013, this space has shown both new and established artists in a warm and fun environment.
LA BODEGA GALLERY
www.labodegagallery.com

3 p.m.

Take a Walk
→ Chicano Park is home to a vast, colorful collection of outdoor murals that recount the history of the Mexican-American and Mexican immigrant communities. As a cornerstone of the Chicano Movement, Chicano Park fully immerses you into the rich history that Barrio Logan is all about.

LA BODEGA GALLERY

BORDER X BREWING

6 p.m.

Time for Dinner
→ Dinner at Pan y Sal is a must for self-proclaimed foodies. Run by chefs Jorge García Flores and Marcela Corrales, this new food hall has a bakery and deli that doles out an array of fresh tortas, bread and baked goods.
PAN Y SAL
breadandsaltsandiego.com

8 p.m.

Nightcap
→ Whet your whistle and grab a few brews. Border X injects Mexican flair into San Diego's flourishing craft beer scene with crushable favorites such as the Horchata Golden Stout or Gran Jefe.
www.borderxbrewing.com

7 a.m.

Morning Coffee
→ Kick-start your day at Por Vida, where you can try something different, such as the Mazapan Latte or their Horchata Cold Brew. You'll love the charm of this San Diego favorite!
POR VIDA
porvidacollective.com

8 a.m.

Cozy Breakfast
→ Breakfast is just around the corner at Maggie's Café. Maggie's offers fan favorites such as the South of the Border Benedict and the Stuffed French Toast.

ANDAZ SAN DIEGO

10 p.m.

Get a Good Night's Sleep
→ Just over two miles from Barrio Logan is Andaz San Diego in the Gaslamp Quarter. Andaz is a unique, four-star boutique hotel with stylish amenities and accommodations, including a rooftop pool and rooftop dining. ■
